

The Pre-Raphaelite
Language of flowers

Debra N. Mancoff

he Pre-Raphaelite Language of flowers

Prestel

Munich • London • New York

Acknowledgments

© for text by Debra N. Mancoff
© for illustrations see Picture Credits, p. 88–91
© Prestel Verlag, Munich · London · New York 2003, reprinted 2018
New edition, 2024

Prestel Verlag, a member of Penguin Random House
Verlagsgruppe GmbH
Neumarkter Strasse 28 · 81673 Munich

The publisher expressly reserves the right to exploit the copyrighted content of this work for the purposes of text and data mining in accordance with Section 44b of the German Copyright Act (UrhG), based on the European Digital Single Market Directive. Any unauthorized use is an infringement of copyright and is hereby prohibited.

The right of Debra N. Mancoff to be identified as author of this work has been asserted in accordance with the Copyright, Designs and Patents Act 1988.

Front cover: John William Waterhouse, The Soul of the Rose (1908), detail, see pp. 50/51

A CIP catalogue record for this book is available from the British Library.

Editorial direction: Philippa Hurd
Design and typesetting: Liane Götzelmann, ew print & media service GmbH
Cover design by Meike Sellier, Eching
Origination: Trevicolor, Treviso, Italy
Printing and binding: DZS Grafik, d.o.o., Ljubljana
Paper: Condat matt Périgord

Verlagsgruppe Random House FSC® N001967

Printed in Slovenia

ISBN 978-3-7913-7735-3

www.prestel.com

This book allowed me to engage in a topic that has long intrigued me, and I would like to express my gratitude to all the people who helped bring it into being. First and foremost I would like to thank my editor, Philippa Hurd, for her encouragement, enthusiasm, and excellent advice. I also thank Ulrike Schmidt for a design that reflects the book's spirit. For sharing their insights on floral iconography, flowers, and Victorian culture I want to acknowledge Peter Kort Zegers of the Art Institute of Chicago, Professor Thomas L. Sloan of the School of the Art Institute of Chicago, Professor Linda K. Hughes of Texas Christian University, my cousin and fellow author Marcia Reiss, and my father Philip Mancoff. For their unflagging energy and creativity I thank my research assistants Theresa M. Corsentino and Maya Sohonie. A special debt of gratitude goes to John Troiani for the many times he helped me out with his technical expertise. I thank the Newberry Library of Chicago for supporting my research as a Scholar in Residence and Marcy Neth and Rosalyn Gray of the Flaxman Library of the School of the Art Institute of Chicago, Josh Eisenberg of the Ryerson Library of the Art Institute of Chicago, and Helen Dobson of the Victoria and Albert Museum, London, for reference assistance. Thanks as well to Shay DeGrandis, Justin Brown, Erin Hanas, and Amanda Freymann for being there for me at the right time. I appreciate the encouragement of my friends Ann M. Brizzolara, Caroline Bugler, Donald L. Hoffman, and Susan Regele, as well as the patience and loving support of my father and my mother Elinor R. Mancoff. And I would like to dedicate this book to my dear friend Paul B. Jaskot, who sees things differently from me, but makes room in his heart for a romantic point of view.

Debra N. Mancoff
Chicago, February 2002